School Spirit Demonstrated By All

The Boosters cheer on the boys jumping for a tip.

The past school year had its successes and failures, its victories and defeats. The Vista staff, in the few pages it was allotted, attempted to put an entire school year in "Vista-63." This, of course, is impossible. We only hope a small portion of the school spirit which was, and always will be, Harrison Hill, has been captured for you to remember.

The many exciting basketball games offered us invaluable hours of enjoyment and gave the boys who participated wonderful opportunities. Our lunch period provided time for relaxation or those extra few minutes needed to complete an assignment for the next class period.

Lunchtime provides a chance for conversing.

Students chatter as they go their way.

Students participate in an act of patriotism.

Immediately after class, students go to their seventh period activities where a feeling of reverence may be demonstrated or a feeling of belonging to a group where many enjoyable hours are spent. Some students remain at school long hours working for teachers, or working with a teacher. Other students find pleasure in serving the school during the day by working in the cafeteria. All these students will be rewarded for their fine effort and spirit, for this 1963 school year will always be part of us, as we will always be part of Harrison Hill.

The inter-school relations bring out our school spirit.

Principal Works For Students' Interests

The spirit of Harrison Hill is typified by Principal Kermit Leininger. Mr. Leininger helps the Harrison Hill students by giving them the guidance and instruction which they need. His patience and kindness make school a more pleasant place and make jobs easier for the students and teachers associating with him. His speeches at assemblies, pep sessions, and over the intercom are helpful to all students and by his never-failing efforts in behalf of the students, he imparts to all of us of Harrison Hill Junior High School a very important part of school spirit in our lives.

Staff Assistants Aid Principal In Work

The guidance and supervision needed by many of the junior high students is provided by the Staff Assistant, Mr. Glenn Mulligan. Mr. Mulligan is a genuine asset to the Junior High and is responsible for many of the activities of the students.

Although not directly concerned with the Junior High, Miss Welcome Warner, Elementary Consultant, is a familiar person to many of the students.

All Classes Prove To Be Interesting

Mr. Van Gehl's biology classes are studying the preparation of test tubes and are observing the growth of bacteria.

Students gain speed and comprehension in Developmental Reading from the use of special books, Readers' Digests, and other equipment.

In the English classes of Mrs. Ann Gargett, the students enjoy reading literature as well as improving their English grammar.

Mr. William Mitchell makes use of lecture and demonstration of experiments in his General Science classes.

First Ten Minutes Important Part Of Day

Lead by the officers elected by Miss Danuser's homeroom, the class has panel discussions on college opportunities and possible vocations.

One period a week is devoted to discussions of problems in a teenager's life in Miss Hahn's eighth grade homeroom.

Homeroom periods in Miss Thompson's seventh grade homeroom are lead by the officers of the class and are used to discuss problems around the school and to announce any oncoming events.

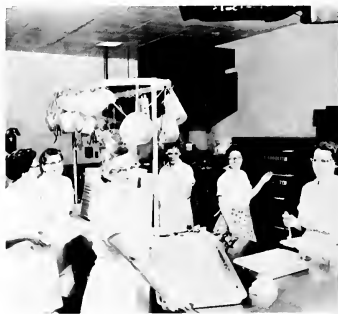

Mrs. Lorraine Tipton and Mrs. Elizabeth Leakey, Harrison Hill secretaries, have the immense job of keeping records for over 1400 pupils. Despite long hours of work, and many unexpected interruptions (which vary from cut knees to last minute stencils to be run off on the mimeograph machine), these two ladies can be depended on to help maintain the pleasant, efficient spirit of Harrison Hill.

School Activities Involve Many People

The matron of Harrison Hill School is Mrs. Rose Buerkle and the custodians are Elmer Lohmeyer, Paul F. Claymiller, Ralph Baysinger, and Cecil P. Siberts. These people are responsible for maintaining cleanliness throughout the school. However, in addition they can always be depended upon to provide both teachers and students with many little extra thoughtful services.

Without the expert planning and work done by the Harrison Hill cooks, the lunchline and the serving line would not function as efficiently as they do. Many of the junior high students depend on these ladies for their delicious and wholesome lunches.

Harrison Hill Students Acquire Honors For School

Andrea Zala, Mike Phelps, and Sharon Miller are Harrison Hill's representatives in the state algebra contest.

Students practice using resonator tone bells before performing on a radio program.

Melinda Watson, Steve Goldstein, and Rosanne Reinking labored over Latin vocabulary before entering the Latin contest.

Activities

Members Of Yearbook Staff Keep Busy

The yearbook brings back wonderful memories of the past year. This is shown by the classroom and activity pictures. The Vista staff worked hard to complete this yearbook to the satisfaction of its sponsor Miss Mary Catherine Hahn. One of the basic purposes of the yearbook is to give an overall picture of a Fort Wayne junior high school, with its aims and achievements illustrated by means of pictures of its activities.

The "Vista" staff races to meet a deadline.

Salesmen learn techniques of filling out receipts.

Staff Puts Much Time And Effort Into Paper

Taking notes for the next "Beacon" are the Assistant Editor, Fran West; News Editor, Joann Wasson;

Editor-in-Chief, Stan Hamilton; and Sports Editor, John McCallister.

"Beacon" reporters inquire about stories.

"Beacon" salesmen take time to read the paper.

The object of the Harrison Hill Beacon is not only to inform the student body of the monthly happenings but also to give journalistic experience to those who desire this training. The sponsor of the Beacon is Miss Mary Catherine Hahn.

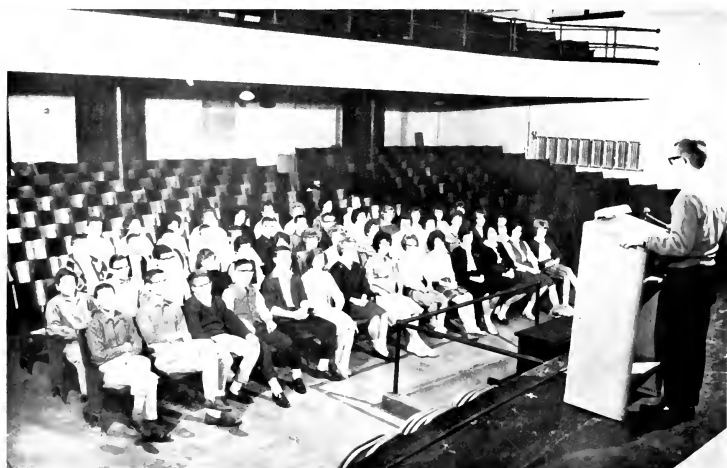

Junior Wranglers Present Speeches And Skits

The annual Christmas Pageant took many hours of practice.

This reproduction of the "Odyssey" almost proved disastrous.

Junior Wranglers, founded in the 1930's, is the oldest speech club at Harrison Hill. Sponsored by Mrs. Ann Gargett, the club strives toward better speech habits. During the year, Junior Wranglers presents a Christmas program, a patriotic program in the spring, and the Lion's Club Speech Contest. The officers of the club are Steve Parrott, chairman; Judie Cole, vice - chairman; Melinda Watson, secretary - treasurer; and John McLaughlin, sergeant-at-arms.

Y-Teens Participate In Variety Of Projects

Any seventh or eighth grade girl is eligible for membership in Y-Teens and can expect an annual program filled with recreational activities and service projects. The Club, under the sponsorship of Miss Dixie Clark, had as its main theme this year Operation Make-Sure. Two of the Y-Teens projects were Christmas caroling at the Fairfield Nursing Home and sponsorship of a Valentine Dance. The officers are Carolyn Young, president; Juanita Foellinger, vice-president; and Victoria Krick, secretary-treasurer.

Y-Teens members relax while singing songs.

New dances are demonstrated at the Valentine's Day Dance.

Seventh, eighth, and ninth grade service workers, under the direction of Miss Virginia Danuser, performed numerous tasks for faculty members. These tasks included such services as grading papers, decorating bulletin boards, and running errands. Again this year Service Club sponsored the collection of food for the Christmas Bureau.

Service Workers Grade Papers, Scrub Desks

Office service workers, Judie Cole and Mary Ann Simmons, do much filing and alphabetizing.

Elementary students enjoy help of service worker, Susan Goebel.

Library Club members serve their school and increase their knowledge of the library and of books. Library Club has no regularly scheduled meetings. Instead, each member serves in the library at least one period each week. The student librarians check books out and in, file cards, shelve books, and arrange bulletin board displays. The Library Club is under the guidance of Miss Donna Keller, and there are no officers.

Student Librarians Check Out, File Books

Linda Trimble and Cindy Powers find decorating the Library bulletin board quite an art.

Girls Construct Clothing; Boys Build Furniture

The sewing Club is an organization, under the direction of Mrs. Janice Zickgraf, which gives ninth grade girls an opportunity for supervised clothing construction. In conducting this activity, Mrs. Zickgraf places special emphasis upon the development of the habits of neatness, promptness, and diligence.

Andrea Zala, Elizabeth Kenwood, and Carl Stoskopf stitch together a blouse of their choice.

Constructing a stool are Greg Shull and Jeff Goltz.

Under the supervision of Mr. Frank Goldman, the Industrial Arts Design and Mechanics Club helps the ninth grade boys, who are not taking industrial arts, to keep in contact with their interest in shop. The officers are George Zaderej, president; William Sinish, vice-president; Robert Clevenger, secretary; and Craig Alvis, sergeant-at-arms.

Art Club Gives Opportunity For Originality

1373384

From decorating bulletin boards to doing fancy handiwork, the Art Club provides a wide variety of programs for the members in order to develop art appreciation and knowledge of its mediums. Mrs. Virginia Kinsey and the Art Club members have made much use of imagination and creativeness this year in Art Club. Officers are Susan Keiser, president; Joan McCallister, vice-president; and Sue Lynn Broxon, secretary-treasurer.

Rome And Spelling Fascinate Students

Written examinations, oral spell-downs, and personal nominations are the methods used for obtaining the winner and runner-up for the annual Journal-Gazette Spelling Contest. The Spelling Club's entire program is dedicated to this purpose. Thomas Lampe is the club's president. Cindy Powers is vice-president and Judy Hart serves as secretary. Miss Georgia Thompson is sponsor of the Spelling Club.

Latin Club scribes and officers plan for their next program.

Mrs. Virginia Loveland is sponsor of the Latin Club, which is a planned activity pertaining to Roman life, history, literature and famous Roman figures. Each week one of the four groups has a program of its own choice. The officers are Lou Ann Rhoads and Steve Goldstein. The scribes are Cindy Bowser and Edward Flottesmesch.

Following a chronological program of United States history, the purpose of Heritage Club is to enhance the knowledge of interested seventh and eighth grade students in their country's rich and colorful heritage. Guests are invited to meetings of outstanding interest. Various types of programs, with all members having an opportunity to participate, have been planned by Sue Keith. Claudia Wiebke is president and Ron Doyle is secretary. The sponsor is Miss Freda Withers.

Some Study History; Others Travel With Slides

Enjoying study of their homeland are the Heritage Club members.

Travel Club members wait for slides used to aid study.

Sponsored by Mrs. Jeanette B. Smith, the Let's Travel Club has its purpose to learn additional facts about the various places of interest in the world. Each week someone from the club presents slides, pictures, or films of various countries visited by members of the club. The chairman is Timothy Smith and other officers are Margaret Eberly, vice - chairman; and Cindy Shireman, secretary-treasurer.

"Click, Click" Echoes Through Halls Weekly

The Typing Club, open to only eighth grade students, is sponsored by Mr. Hugh Howenstine. Thirty-three members assemble each Friday in room 220 during the activity period. The touch method of typing is taught. The objective of the club is to have each member become proficient enough to type such school work as may be necessary.

The Kings and Queens are guarded carefully by the entranced chess players.

Bishops And Castles Are All Part Of The Game

Chess Club members enjoy the game of chess with others who have similar interests. The club is sponsored by Miss Ruth Whittern and has as its president Don Beardsley. Other officers are Bill Wiedelman, vice-president; Carolyn Young, secretary; and Thomas Tritch, assistant secretary.

D.N.A. Molecules Interest Science Club Members

Dave Schwartz leads Science Club discussions as Mr. Edwin Day meditates.

The Science Club's main purpose is to learn more about science. The group of interested students meets on Tuesdays in either of the science rooms. Mr. Edwin Day is the sponsor of the club. Every week someone gives a special report which he or she has prepared. The choice of topics range from the D.N.A. molecule to the notables in science.

Concert Choir Sings Up Storm At Concerts

Singing its way through the year, the Concert Choir, under the direction of Miss Audrey Hochstetler, entertained at concerts, PTA meetings and the Christmas program. A wide variety of music scores and featured student singers added extra spice to each activity. The officers are John McLaughlin, president; Sally Reitdorf, vice-president; and Judie Cole, secretary.

The Choir goes over each number very often before presenting it to an audience.

Choir members perform at the Lincoln Day Assembly.

Drumming, Tooting Are Well-Known Sounds

The Concert Band, under the direction of Mr. John W. Broom, is a select group of eighth and ninth grade students and is one of the principal performing organizations. Its purpose is to study and perform in public a wide variety of band literature. John McCallister and Mary Ann Simmons serve as president and vice-president. Concerts, assemblies, and the NISBOVA contest, as well as athletic events, are part of the year's events.

Harmony Of Strings, Woodwinds Is Pleasant

The Concert Orchestra provides opportunity for full orchestra experience and a wider study of orchestral literature. The string orchestra and string ensembles provide additional experience for string players.

Woodwind, brass, and percussion players are selected from the band students. The orchestra also participates in the NISBOVA contest and performs at concerts under the direction of Mr. John Broom.

The French Horn section provides the harmony for the Orchestra.

Music Department Has Outside Groups

Once a week the voices of the Triple Trio may be heard drifting through the halls. Sponsored by Miss Audrey Hochstetler, these ninth grade girls find pleasure in this opportunity to improve their voices. The group sings for concerts and other programs throughout the school year.

Singing a Negro spiritual is the Triple Trio.

The Dance Band starts a lot of foot tapping.

The Dance Band provides opportunity for the study of the various forms of popular music and at the same time is always ready for school dances. It enters the NISBOVA contest annually.

Seventh Graders Get Chance to Play In Band

The Cadet Band composed of seventh and eighth grade students provides a training ground for the concert organizations. As an outlet of instrumental classes, it is the students' first full band experience. The members take part in the winter and spring concerts presented by the music department.

Glee Club Precedes Singing In Concert Choir

The Seventh Grade Choir provides an opportunity for further musical experience for those who enjoy singing. During the year this choir participates in the Seventh Grade Music Assembly. Miss Audrey Hochstetler is the director and the officers are Bonnie Hagerman, president; Margaret Eberly, vice-president; and Tom Lampe, secretary.

Sports

Basketball Season Yields Good Record

The Harrison Hill Varsity Squad, under the leadership of Mr. Van Gehl, had a much improved record this year over seasons past. The highlight of the twelve contests was the victory in the final game of the season over a previously undefeated Fairfield squad. The school spirit was typified by the hard-fought games and the fine attendance and participation of the student body.

Bob Horber is fouled when going for two points.

The team makes some plans before breaking from the huddle.

Mr. Innis instructs the Reserves before leaving the locker room.

Mr. Innis Heads Junior Varsity Second Year

The Junior Varsity Squad, headed by Mr. Edward Innis, also displayed fine team spirit during the season. Even though the season's record could not be termed successful by the win-loss column, it was a success in values learned, good habits acquired, and knowledge gained for the playing of future games.

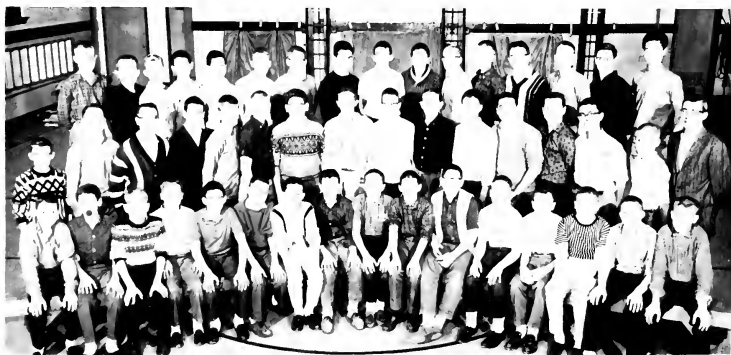

Varsity Football Team Achieves First Victory

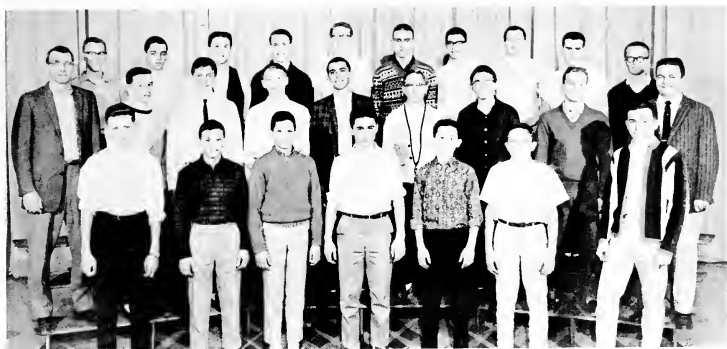

The 1963 Varsity Football Squad, under the leadership of Mr. Edward Innis, finished with a 1-2-3 record, the one win being the first for a varsity football team at Harrison Hill.

Hawks Bring Home Many Victories

Mr. William Mitchell coached this year's flagball team to a 5 to 1 record. This placed them second in the city standings, and the team is to be congratulated for this fine showing.

The Harrison Hill Track Team finished its season on May 24 at the Northside City meet. The varsity squad was headed by Mr. William Mitchell, and Mr. Ed Innis instructed the reserves. The squad put on many displays of great spirit and effort.

Ninth Grade Boys Active In Intramurals

Boy's Intramurals, sponsored by Mr. Edward Innis, had a busy schedule during the year. Concentrating mainly on basketball and volleyball, many of the boys not on a varsity or reserve squad had an opportunity to improve their proficiency in these fields.

Relaxing between sprints are members of the intramural track team.

Boys In Seventh, Eighth Grades Enjoy Intramurals

Sports have an appeal of some kind for almost everyone. This appeal is demonstrated in our seventh and eighth grade intramurals. The wide appeal of sports is shown in one way by the large amount of space given to sports in our Beacon and Vista.

Almost any pleasant activity with a main purpose of exercising the body is called a sport. This exercise of body is all the more important in view of the campaign by our government to improve the general physical fitness of all citizens and especially all of our young citizens.

The seventh and eighth grade intramural boys participate in many sports. Basketball, football, volleyball, baseball, and track were the main sports activities which occupied the time of this intramural group. Some of these sports give teams a chance to compete and some of these sports gave individuals a chance to compete. The individual sports are the ones which best lead to lifelong participation.

The main purpose of this boys' athletic association is to develop a healthy individual, mentally and morally as well as physically. The participating individual should be a more pleasant and well adapted human being as a result of belonging to this association.

The Girls Athletic Association is a state organization founded with the purpose of developing better health, character, sportsmanship, and athletic ability. The girls formed a soccer team, a basketball team, and a volleyball team to play against various schools. Under the leadership of Miss Beverly Moore, Mary Ann Simmons serves at president, Linda Fairchild as vice-president, and Carol Fairchild as secretary.

Hawkettes Carry Own Record

The basis for the Officials Club, sponsored by Miss Beverly Moore, is to learn the rules of the various games and to apply them while playing. This also helps them to have a better understanding of different sports.

G.A.A. Has Seventh, Eighth Grade Participants

The Girls Athletic Association is an organization that's purpose is to give girls the opportunity to develop qualities of sportsmanship and leadership through sports activities. The officers for the eighth grade are Leslie Tie-man, president; Carol Hershberger, vice-president; and Laura Azar, secretary. Renea Hower, Merrilee Gates, and Tamara Alvis lead the seventh graders under the supervision of Miss Beverly Moore.

Crowd Yells "Victory" To Cheer On Teams

"Go, Team, Go" was a cheer which at times would almost break your eardrums at some of our basketball games. We had a "Gr-r-reat" "T-E-A-M" that had a lot to "Say" when the "Team Was In The Huddle" while the boosters were wishing them lots of "Good Luck." Many times the cheerleaders and the boosters would be hoarse and tired from cheering their team on to a possible victory, but never would they give up even though we were not on the winning side.

The team is in the huddle

. and this is what they said.

Shadows May Fall But Spirit Never Dies

This is one of the many days experienced at our school. It is simple but full of fun and laughter, hard work and disappointments. The actual "spirit" of Harrison Hill will remain with us many years after we close our lockers for the last time. The ninth graders will graduate and give way to the eighth graders, leaving open to them new horizons and new opportunities. This will continue from year to year and it is hoped each year will prove just as successful as the previous one.
